Scenario #1: A Party in Boston

Scenario: The members of your patrol have decided to help the Sons of Liberty on the evening of December 16, 1773, at Griffin's Wharf. The Sons of Liberty, dressed in Mohawk warrior disguises, board the British ship Dartmouth and start throwing tea overboard.

While the group of men are throwing the tea overboard, one of the men, 19-year-old David Jones, is sliced on the lower right calf, just above the ankle, by a chest. The blood is spurting out of the wound, and he is losing blood rapidly.

As the patrol arrives to help Davey, he passes out and falls to the deck of the ship. When he falls, he gets a gash behind the left ear. The blood is oozing out, and you see tea leaves and sawdust around the wound. Davey becomes conscious and is a little disoriented but breathing normally.

The patrol, knowing that Davey, a dedicated member of the Sons of Liberty, needs more help than they can provide, must send someone for help. The patrol is aware that several doctors are with Samuel Adams at the Old South Meeting House and decide to race there to get help.
